

gain, that she is not at leisure so much as to seem Troubled, that she may be the more Serviceable.

But now, Ladies (except in your own Houses) Where shall we find any Women so Regular as to follow these Rules of Government? A She-Governor thus accomplish'd, is like a Star with five Rays, Devotion, Modesty, Chastity, Discretion, and Charity; such Women, whose Composition is made up of these, seem (like the Noble Daphne*) to have been moulded upon the Celestial Globes, by the Hands of Cherubims; so excellent are their Virtues, and so sweet their Deportments. They are in their Houses, as the Sun in his proper Sphere. Should I attempt to represent their Worth, I might sooner find Poverty in the Center of all the Rich Ore and Precious-Stones of the Earth, than want of Merit in them; but more especially in that Gracious Princess who now Governs: And as in former Times, the Tyranny of the Danes was suppress'd by the Wisdoms
